

HOUSE MUSIC DJ & PRODUCER / ATLANTA ROOTS. NATIONAL REACH.

MATT SILLIMAN

Matt Silliman is a house music DJ and producer whose career has taken him from Atlanta's underground to clubs and festival stages across the United States. Behind the decks since 1996, he moves between deep, soulful house and driving tech house, with warmth, vocals, and groove running through the mix.

His history includes national touring both before a break from performing and since his return. Today, a steady run of shows keeps him moving between Atlanta and dance floors around the country. Festivals are part of that story, but intimate clubs remain his favorite setting: close to the crowd, with room to build a set and follow where the night leads.

His support credits include Dombresky, Mark Farina, Derrick Carter, and Miguel Migs, alongside repeated opening sets for Benny Benassi in Atlanta. Earlier in his career, he opened for artists including Underworld, Moby, Rabbit in the Moon, Sasha, and John Digweed, giving his history a reach across generations and corners of electronic music.

Matt is also an event producer and community builder. A co-founder of Captains of Revelry and the force behind the Feelgood House Movement, he has helped create and sustain house music gatherings across Atlanta and the surrounding area. His work includes Beats on the Lake, the Alive at Five house party in Roswell, and Captains of Revelry events, bringing guest artists and returning crowds together around welcoming dance floors.

Raised in Decatur, with early residencies at Karma and Eleven50, Matt remains connected to the scene that shaped him. Alongside performing and producing events, he releases original music including Hot Mess, Hurt, and Afterglow. His work is about both the set and what grows around it: friendships, communities, and reasons to come back.
